NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES
INVENTORY -- NOMINATION FORM

NAME
HISTORIC Lorenzo Crandall House

LOCATION
STREET & NUMBER 221 High Street
CITY, TOWN Pawtucket
STATE Rhode Island

CLASSIFICATION
CATEGORY DISTRICT BUILDING(S) STRUCTURE SITE OBJECT PUBLIC PRIVATE PUBLIC ACQUISITION

OWNERSHIP
PRIVATE

STATUS
X OCCUPIED
UNOCCUPIED
WORK IN PROGRESS ACCESSIBLE
YES, RESTRICTED
YES, UNRESTRICTED
NO

PRESENT USE

OWNER OF PROPERTY
NAME Pawtucket Redevelopment Agency
STREET & NUMBER 200 Main Street
CITY, TOWN Pawtucket
STATE Rhode Island

LOCATION OF LEGAL DESCRIPTION
COURTHOUSE, REGISTRY OF DEEDS, ETC.
Pawtucket City Hall
STREET & NUMBER Roosevelt Avenue
CITY, TOWN Pawtucket
STATE Rhode Island

REPRESENTATION IN EXISTING SURVEYS
TITLE Pawtucket, Rhode Island, Statewide Preservation Report P-P
DATE 1976-1977
DEPOSITORY FOR SURVEY RECORDS Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission
CITY, TOWN Providence
STATE Rhode Island
The Lorenzo Crandall House, 221 High Street, Pawtucket, is a two- and-one-half-story, modestly-detailed, Greek Revival style, frame house. Built in 1848-1849, for, and probably by, Lorenzo Crandall, a Pawtucket carpenter, the house is set facing west with its gable end to the street. Viewed from High Street, the house appears to be only one and one-half stories in height; however, its hillside location, on land which slopes sharply down immediately east of the street, actually provides an additional full story below street level. Clapboards cover all walls including those below street level. Corner pilasters, a wide banded cornice frieze with inset windows immediately under the roof, bold return mouldings, relatively flat moulded window caps, and the simple, well-proportioned Greek Revival frame of the main entrance are the major exterior stylistic embellishments.

A one-story hip-roofed porch on the south flank of the house (which may be a later addition), echoes the simple detailing of the house in its posts and frieze. The porch gives street-level access to a side rear entrance, forms a shelter over the side entrance of the basement level. A single, large brick chimney is located almost in the center of the house and serves two fireplaces on each of the two primary floors.

Except for the rather cramped front stairhall -- with its staircase spiralling tightly around a flat-sectioned half-column faced on the front with a panelled pilaster treatment -- the interior plan and detailing on the two primary levels are essentially identical. Each level has a small, formal front parlor with kitchen immediately behind, both rooms sharing the brick chimney stack. Each parlor features a fireplace, with a heavy, crossetted, wooden mantel, and a separate, shallow, full-height cupboard built into the wall beside it. Each kitchen has a cooking fireplace with bake oven at the right front. Cast iron cranes and oven doors are still in place. Parlors and kitchens also retain their original under-window panels.

An assortment of small rooms open off the original primary living spaces. There appear to have been some partition changes in them to accommodate such necessities as modern kitchens and bathrooms. A staircase at the very back of the house, set in a narrow stairhall, serves all three levels.

Lorenzo Crandall's house was apparently built as a two-family residence originally, and was probably shared first by Lorenzo (who presumably occupied the street level and gable space above) and his son William O. Crandall (who lived in the house at least as late as 1869). Later the house was apparently shared by Lorenzo and his son.

See continuation sheet 1
Henry W. Crandall; in 1892 Lorenzo sold the house, which he referred to as his "homestead," to Henry, reserving a life tenancy for himself and for his wife.

Currently used as three apartments, and relatively unaltered over the years, the Lorenzo Crandall House remains essentially as first built, an unusually-sited, modestly-detailed example of a small house type once very prevalent in Pawtucket.
The Lorenzo Crandall House is significant for two reasons. First, although it is a modest vernacular building, of minimal architectural pretension or stylistic elaboration, it is an excellent example of a house type once widespread in mid-nineteenth-century Pawtucket and now almost totally eradicated from the city's physical fabric. Second, as the house of a local carpenter, it is in surprisingly unaltered condition and represents the quality, scale, and type of homes of one of nineteenth century Pawtucket's major social classes, the artisans.

Solidity of construction and handsomeness of proportion rather than fine or unusual detailing characterize the house that Lorenzo Crandall, carpenter, almost certainly built for himself in 1848-1849. He chose a form -- the gable-roofed, one-and-one-half- or two-and-one-half-story frame house set gable end to the street -- which at that time was a prevalent and practical reflection of Greek Revival stylistic influences and of the growing demand for affordable, modest housing for a burgeoning middle class.

Pawtucket, following the nationwide depression and crash of 1829, recovered slowly in the 1830's, but by the 1840's was expanding rapidly as a major industrial center in the still-young country of the United States. Lowell, Massachusetts, had surpassed Pawtucket by this time as the premier American cotton manufacturing center, but Pawtucket's textile industries remained vital and other industries, such as the various metal working industries and specialized branches of textile manufacture, continued to expand and prosper. By the 1830's three quite distinct social classes had developed in the community: the relatively small group of wealthy mill owners and industrialists; a substantial number of artisans, whose skills and inventiveness supported Pawtucket's industrial productiveness directly (in the industries themselves) and indirectly (in providing mill buildings and machinery for industry, housing and services for new workers and residents, and metal parts and engines needed in local manufacturing or marketed elsewhere); and an overwhelming number of laborers and unskilled mill workers, frequently of European extraction.
The middle decades of the 19th century in Pawtucket saw extensive residential development, both for mill workers and for artisans. High Street developed as just such an artisan neighborhood, and Lorenzo Crandall's house is set in a dense concentration of modest frame houses, most of which were built for, if not also partly by, local artisans, between 1840 and 1890. Unlike many others on the street, the Crandall house, has not suffered such alterations as the addition of new siding or modern windows. It remains the best preserved of the artisan homes among those on the east side of the street.

Lorenzo Crandall (October 25, 1813 - June 2, 1892) was a carpenter of whom relatively little is known today, other than the bare genealogical bones. This lack of specific information probably indicates that Lorenzo Crandall was solidly typical of, rather than unique to, his time, place, and station in life. Born in Fall River, Massachusetts, he moved with his parents first to Voluntown, Connecticut, then to Pawtucket, Rhode Island. According to genealogical notes compiled by his daughter Claribel Crandall in 1905, Lorenzo travelled for business reasons "west and south, spending some time in Cuba. He returned to Pawtucket, married and gave his time to contracting and building." Claribel Crandall also indicated that her father "was a man of firm will and steadfast purpose, and held many offices of trust in the town." This remark must be interpreted as a standard nineteenth century encomium, for a cursory survey of city directories from the 1850's through the early 1890's yielded no record of Crandall office-holding.

Perusal of the directories as well as of annual lists of "Improvements to Real Estate in Rhode Island," published in the mid-1860's in the Providence Daily Journal, also yielded no mention of Lorenzo Crandall. It seems probable that Crandall worked for one of the dozen or so carpenter-building firms that are mentioned in the newspaper accounts and entered in the directories. At any rate, if one may judge from the execution and finish of his own house, Crandall was a competent and traditional, if not inspired, craftsman. His influence, though undocumented and at this point essentially anonymous, must have been felt in many Pawtucket buildings, especially residences, built from the 1840's through the 1870's or '80's.

One interesting minor point of interest is an extraordinarily close stylistic parallel between the treatment of the front staircase in Crandall's own house and that of the 1840's remodelling of the Daggett House, one of the earliest extant buildings in Pawtucket (entered on the National Register as part of Slater Park Historic District). Both houses feature spiral stairs which wind around heavy flat-faced, wooden columns set against a curving back plaster wall. In the Daggett House the stairhall was enlarged by the addition on the front of the house of a small roofed porch; as a result there is space to use a full column. In the Crandall house no extra space was provided for the stairhall within the regular, rectangular mass of the house; there was space only for a half column, fronted with a flat panelled pilaster treatment. This visual evidence of connection is further tenuously supported by the fact that some relation between the Crandall and the Daggett families did exist; Lorenzo Crandall's father married Lucy Winslow, a daughter of Joanna Daggett. Additional genealogical research would be necessary to substantiate the closeness of and any influence of the family relationship; but it does seem probable that the same carpenter -- probably Lorenzo Crandall -- worked on both staircases.

The City of Pawtucket's plans for urban renewal have already altered the southern part of the High Street neighborhood. Renewal has substituted the tall Fogarty Building and open space for what once was a densely-built, small-scale, frame environment. The Pawtucket Redevelopment Authority's current plans call for additional clearance north of Fogarty along the east side of High Street, which would necessitate demolition or removal of the Lorenzo Crandall House.

*Housing for the Elderly
MAJOR BIBLIOGRAPHICAL REFERENCES

GEOGRAPHICAL DATA

ACREAGE OF NOMINATED PROPERTY: less than one

UTM REFERENCES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>A</th>
<th>19</th>
<th>30</th>
<th>17</th>
<th>46</th>
<th>39</th>
<th>15</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ZONE</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

VERBAL BOUNDARY DESCRIPTION

Plat 43, lot 96

LIST ALL STATES AND COUNTIES FOR PROPERTIES OVERLAPPING STATE OR COUNTY BOUNDARIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>STATE</th>
<th>CODE</th>
<th>COUNTY</th>
<th>CODE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FORM PREPARED BY

Ancelin V. Lynch, National Register Coordinator

Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission

150 Benefit Street

Providence, Rhode Island

STATE HISTORIC PRESERVATION OFFICER CERTIFICATION

THE EVALUATED SIGNIFICANCE OF THIS PROPERTY WITHIN THE STATE IS:

NATIONAL ___  STATE ___  LOCAL X

As the designated State Historic Preservation Officer for the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-665), I hereby nominate this property for inclusion in the National Register and certify that it has been evaluated according to the criteria and procedures set forth by the National Park Service.

STATE HISTORIC PRESERVATION OFFICER SIGNATURE

DATE: June 21, 1978

DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF ARCHEOLOGY AND HISTORIC PRESERVATION

DATE

KEEPER OF THE NATIONAL REGISTER
United States Department of the Interior
National Park Service

National Register of Historic Places
Inventory—Nomination Form

See instructions in How to Complete National Register Forms
Type all entries—complete applicable sections

1. Name

historic Lorenzo Crandall House

2. Location

street & number 221 High Street

city, town Pawtucket vicinity of #1—Hon. Fernand J. St Germain

3. Classification

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Category</th>
<th>Ownership</th>
<th>Status</th>
<th>Present Use</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>district</td>
<td>public X</td>
<td>occupied</td>
<td>agriculture</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>building(s)</td>
<td>private</td>
<td>unoccupied</td>
<td>commercial</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>structure</td>
<td>both</td>
<td>work in progress</td>
<td>educational</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>site</td>
<td>Public Acquisition</td>
<td>Accessible</td>
<td>entertainment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>object</td>
<td>N.A. in process</td>
<td>yes: restricted</td>
<td>government</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>X</td>
<td>being considered</td>
<td>yes: unrestricted</td>
<td>industrial</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4. Owner of Property

name Patricia S. & W. Bruce Tillinghast

5. Location of Legal Description

courthouse, registry of deeds, etc. Pawtucket City Hall

6. Representation in Existing Surveys

Pawtucket, Rhode Island, Statewide

title Preservation Report, P-PA-2 has this property been determined eligible? yes X no date 1976-1977 federal X state county local depository for survey records Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission
The Lorenzo Crandall House is a two-and-one-half-story, modestly-detailed, Greek Revival style, frame house.

Built in 1848-49, for, and probably by, Lorenzo Crandall, a Pawtucket carpenter, the house is set facing west with its gable end to the street. Viewed from High Street, the house appears to be only one-and-one-half-stories in height; however, its hillside location, on land which slopes sharply down immediately east of the street, actually provides an additional full story below street level. Clapboards cover all walls including those below street level. Corner pilasters, a wide banded cornice frieze with inset windows immediately under the roof, bold return mouldings, relatively flat moulded window caps, and the simple, well-proportioned Greek Revival frame of the main entrance are the major exterior stylistic embellishments.

A one-story hip-roofed porch on the south flank of the house, restored after a 1979 fire, echoes the simple detailing of the house in its posts and frieze. The porch gives street-level access to a side rear entrance, forms a shelter over the side entrance of the basement level. A single, large brick chimney, rebuilt above the roof line after a fire, is located almost in the center of the house and serves two fireplaces on each of the two primary floors.

Except for the rather cramped front stairhall--with its staircase spiralling tightly around a flat-sectioned half-column faced on the front with a panelled pilaster treatment--the interior plan and detailing on the two primary levels are essentially identical. Each level has a small, formal front parlor with kitchen immediately behind, both rooms sharing the brick chimney stack. Each parlor features a fireplace, with a heavy, crossetted, wooden mantel, and a separate, shallow, full-height cupboard built into the wall beside it. Each kitchen has a cooking fireplace with bake oven at the right front. Cast iron cranes and oven doors are still in place. Parlors and kitchens also retain their original under-window panels.

An assortment of small rooms open off the original primary living spaces. There appear to have been some partition changes in them to accommodate such necessities as modern kitchens and bathrooms. A staircase at the very back of the house, set in a narrow stairhall, serves all three levels.

Lorenzo Crandall's house was apparently built as a two-family residence originally, and was probably shared first by Lorenzo (who presumably occupied the street level and gable space above) and his son William O. Crandall (who lived in the house at least as late as 1869). Later the house was apparently shared by Lorenzo and his son Henry W. Crandall; in 1892 Lorenzo sold the house, which he referred to as his "homestead," to Henry, reserving a life tenancy for himself and for his wife.

(See Continuation Sheet #1)
Relatively unaltered over the years, the Lorenzo Crandall House remains essentially as first built, a modestly-detailed example of a small house type once very prevalent in Pawtucket.
8. Significance

Period | Areas of Significance—Check and justify below
--- | ---
prehistoric | archeology-prehistoric | community planning | landscape architecture | religion
1400–1499 | archeology-historic | conservation | law | science
1500–1599 | agriculture | economics | literature | sculpture
1600–1699 | architecture | education | military | social
1700–1799 | art | engineering | music | humanitarian
1800–1899 | commerce | exploration/settlement | philosophy | theater
1900– | communications | industry | politics/government | transportation

Specific dates 1848–1849 Builder/Architect Lorenzo Crandall, carpenter

Statement of Significance (in one paragraph)

The Lorenzo Crandall House is significant principally for its architectural character; although it is a modest vernacular building, of little architectural pretension or stylistic elaboration, it is an excellent example of a house type once widespread in mid-nineteenth-century Pawtucket and now almost totally eradicated from the city's physical fabric. Second, as the house of a local carpenter, it is in surprisingly unaltered condition and represents the quality, scale, and type of homes of one of nineteenth century Pawtucket's major social classes, the artisans.

Solidity of construction and handsomeness of proportion rather than fine or unusual detailing characterize the house that Lorenzo Crandall, carpenter, almost certainly built for himself in 1848-1849. He chose a form—the gable-roofed, one-and-one-half- or two-and-one-half-story frame house set gable end to the street—which at that time was a prevalent and practical reflection of Greek Revival stylistic influences and of the growing demand for affordable, modest housing for a burgeoning middle class.

Pawtucket, following the nationwide depression and crash of 1829, recovered slowly in the 1830s, but by the 1840s was expanding rapidly as a major industrial center in the still-young country of the United States. Lowell, Massachusetts, had surpassed Pawtucket by this time as the premier American cotton manufacturing center, but Pawtucket's textile industries remained vital and other industries, such as the various metal working industries and specialized branches of textile manufacture, continued to expand and prosper. By the 1830s three quite distinct social classes had developed in the community: the relatively small group of wealthy mill owners and industrialists; a substantial number of artisans, whose skills and inventiveness supported Pawtucket's industrial productivity directly (in the industries themselves) and indirectly (in providing mill buildings and machinery for industry, housing and services for new workers and residents, and metal parts and engines needed in local manufacturing or marketed elsewhere); and an overwhelming number of laborers and unskilled mill workers, frequently of European extraction.

The middle decades of the 19th century in Pawtucket saw extensive residential development, both for mill workers and for artisans. High Street developed as just such an artisan neighborhood, and Lorenzo Crandall's house is set in a dense concentration of modest frame houses, most of which were built for, if not also partly by, local artisans, between 1840 and 1890. Unlike many others on the street, the Crandall the Crandall house has not suffered such alterations as the addition of new siding or modern windows. It remains the best preserved of the artisan homes among those on the east side of the street.

(See Continuation Sheet #2)

Lorenzo Crandall (October 25, 1813 - June 2, 1893) was a carpenter of whom relatively little is known today, other than the bare genealogical bones. This lack of specific information probably indicates that Lorenzo Crandall was solidly typical of, rather than unique to, his time, place, and station in life. Born in Fall River, Massachusetts, he moved with his parents first to Voluntown, Connecticut, then to Pawtucket, Rhode Island. According to genealogical notes compiled by his daughter Claribell Crandall in 1905, Lorenzo travelled for business reasons "west and south, spending some time in Cuba. He returned to Pawtucket, married and gave his time to contracting and building." Claribel Crandall also indicated that her father "was a man of firm will and steadfast purpose, and held many offices of trust in the town." This remark must be interpreted as a standard nineteenth century encomium, for a cursory survey of city directories from the 1850s through the early 1890s yielded no record of Crandall office-holding.

Perusal of the directories as well as of annual lists of "Improvements to Real Estate in Rhode Island," published in the mid-1860s in the Providence Daily Journal, also yielded no mention of Lorenzo Crandall. It seems probable that Crandall worked for one of the dozen or so carpenter-building firms that are mentioned in the newspaper accounts and entered in the directories. At any rate, if one may judge from the execution and finish of his own house, Crandall was a competent and traditional, if not inspired, craftsman. His influence, though undocumented and at this point essentially anonymous, must have been felt in many Pawtucket buildings, especially residences, built from the 1840s through the 1870s or 1880s.

One interesting minor point of interest is an extraordinarily close stylistic parallel between the treatment of the front staircase in Crandall's own house and that of the 1840s remodelling of the Daggett House, one of the earliest extant buildings in Pawtucket (entered on the National Register as part of Slater Park Historic District). Both houses feature spiral stairs which wind around heavy flat-faceted, wooden columns set against a curving plaster wall. In the Daggett House the stairhall was enlarged by the addition on the front of the house of a small roofed porch; as a result there is space to use a full column. In the Crandall house no extra space was provided for the stairhall within the regular, rectangular mass of the house; there was space only for a half column, fronted with a flat panelled pilaster treatment. This visual evidence of connection is further-tenuously supported by the fact that some relation between the Crandall and the Daggett families did exist; Lorenzo Crandall's father married Lucy Winslow, a daughter of Joanna Daggett. Additional genealogical research would be necessary to substantiate the closeness of and any influence of the family relationship; but it does seem probable that the same carpenter—probably Lorenzo Crandall—worked on both staircases.

In December, 1979, the Lorenzo Crandall House was moved from its original site to its present location. The original location (also 221 High Street) was 300 feet north along High Street from the present site. The move was necessitated by the City of Pawtucket's plans for urban renewal. The construction of the nearby high-rise Fogarty Housing for the Elderly and the creation of an open-space area would have required the demolition of the Crandall House on its original site. Moving the house was judged to be the only feasible preservation alternative.

The new location for the Crandall House is in many ways similar to its original location. On the same side of the same street, with exactly the same setback, the new site repeats the unusual relationship of the house to its deeply-sloped original site and allows for the basement level to be located below street level but above grade as it was on the original site.

While moved buildings are not generally eligible for Register listing, the Crandall House's new location admirably repeats the siting of its original location. In addition, the Crandall House is significant primarily for its architectural value, that is, its ability to document the quality, scale, and type of houses of Pawtucket's nineteenth century artisans.
9. Major Bibliographical References

10. Geographical Data

| Acreage of nominated property | less than one |
| Quadrangle name               | Pawtucket    |
| Quadrangle scale              | 1:24,000     |

UTM References

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Zone</th>
<th>Easting</th>
<th>Northing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>109</td>
<td>302166</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Verbal boundary description and justification

The boundaries of the Lorenzo Crandall House are the lines of Pawtucket Assessor's lot 605, plat 43B. This small city lot (9200 square feet) contains only the Crandall House and its immediate surroundings.

List all states and counties for properties overlapping state or county boundaries

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>state</th>
<th>code</th>
<th>county</th>
<th>code</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

11. Form Prepared By

| name/title | Ancelin V. Lynch, National Register Coordinator |
| street & number | 150 Benefit Street | telephone | 401-277-2678 |
| city or town | Providence | state | Rhode Island |

12. State Historic Preservation Officer Certification

The evaluated significance of this property within the state is:

- national
- state
- local

As the designated State Historic Preservation Officer for the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-665), I hereby nominate this property for inclusion in the National Register and certify that it has been evaluated according to the criteria and procedures set forth by the National Park Service.

| State Historic Preservation Officer signature |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>title</th>
<th>date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

For NPS' use only

I hereby certify that this property is included in the National Register.

| Keeper of the National Register |
| Attest | date |

Chief of Registration
Lorenzo Crandall House

Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Ancelin V. Lynch

April, 1977

Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission

Facade of the house from the west northwest.
Lorenzo Crandall House
Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Ancelin V. Lynch April, 1977
Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission

Close-up of doorway, from the west.
Lorenzo Crandall House
Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Ancelin V. Lynch April, 1977
Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission

Front parlor mantel, from the west southwest, also showing doorframe moulding at right and edge of built-in cupboard at left.
Lorenzo Crandall House
Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Ancelin V. Lynch April, 1977
Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission

Kitchen fireplace, street level story, from the east:

#4
LORENZO CRANDALL HOUSE

221 High Street, Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Photographer: Ancelin Lynch
Date: December, 1979
Negative filed at: Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission
150 Benefit Street, Providence, RI

View north showing house ready to be moved; new site and foundation in the foreground.

Photo #1
LORENZO CRANDALL HOUSE
221 High Street, Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Photographer: Ancelin Lynch
Date: December, 1979
Negative filed at: Rhode Island Historical Preservation Commission
150 Benefit Street, Providence

View north from new site and foundation to house raised on original site.

Photo #2
LORENZO CRANDALL HOUSE
221 High Street, Pawtucket, Rhode Island

Photographer: Bruce Tillinghast
Date: June, 1982
Negative filed at: Bruce Tillinghast
221 High Street
Pawtucket, Rhode Island

View of house looking northeast showing it in its new location with porches rebuilt.

Photo #3
Lorenzo Crandall House
Pawtucket, Rhode Island

A 19 302160 4639080

PAWTUCKET, R. I.-MASS.
N4152.5—W7122.5
1949
PHOTOREVISED 1970

VILLAGE GREEN ASSOCIATES, INC.
11 North Road
Pawtucket, Rhode Island 02860